Q & A Session for Families with Medical Experts

Families, do you have questions about returning to school safely this fall? Join pediatricians and school medical experts to get answers to your questions about immunizations, mask wearing, hand washing, social distancing, face touching and any other concerns.

Back-to-school will feel different this year. The State Department of Education, together with health care providers, is hosting a virtual meeting to answer your questions about what to expect for a safe return to school.
